2012 Color Orthophoto Killingly, CT (South)

EXPLANATION
This map displays 2012 National Agriculture Imagery Program (NAIP) orthophotography for the State of Connecticut. It is a natural color, false color, 3.79-foot (1 meter) aerial survey taken in the Summer of 2012. The accurately measured and color balanced so visualizations between individual output images are not consistent. The natural color differences in the image and intensity of colors depending on the area viewed. The location and shape of features in other GIS layers may not exactly match information shown in the aerial photography primarily due to differences in spatial accuracy and data collection times. Street-level data such as major intersections, US routes, state routes, streets, railroads, and ferry crossings are displayed yet may not match the locations of such features on the orthophotography. Also shown are airports, hospitals, educational facilities, main streams, and town boundaries. Important geographic locations and textboxes are labeled.

DATA SOURCES

ORTHOPHOTOGRAPHY - National Agriculture Imagery Program (NAIP) is provided by the USDA and FSA through the Federal Photograph Field Office in South Salem, NY.
BASE MAP DATA - Based on data originally from the 1:24,000 scale USGS 7.5-minute topographic quadrangle maps published between 1969 and 1992. It includes political boundaries, railroads, and river crossings; streets, names, and geographic feature. Credit and legal terms are from Title 43 U.S.C. governing NAIP data. Remaining data elements within Connecticut were added.
