Hydric soils are those soils that are under saturated or inundated conditions throughout the growing season. Under natural conditions, they remain saturated or inundated long enough during the growing season to support the growth and reproduction of hydrophytic vegetation. Thus, criteria that identify those estimated soil properties needed to support the growth and reproduction of hydrophytic vegetation are applied to soils that meet the definition of hydric soils.