The map shows the natural drainage basins, their relationships, and other geometric information in the Wallingford, Connecticut area. It is based on the following digital map: Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection, Office of Water Resources, Statewide Surface Water Resources Inventory. The drainage basins are divided into major, regional, subregional, and local categories. The data is used for planning, development, and conservation purposes.

Some data sources include:
- Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection, Office of Water Resources, Statewide Surface Water Resources Inventory.

The map includes a legend with information about the different drainage basins and their relationships. It also shows various streets and landmarks within the area.