This map depicts natural areas of conservation and environmental significance in Thomaston, CT. The map highlights areas designated by the Natural Diversity Data Base Areas, which are critical for protecting plant and animal species and habitats. The map includes information on natural areas, such as forests, wetlands, and other ecosystems, that support biodiversity. The map is intended to help viewers understand the geographic distribution of these areas and their importance for conservation.

LEGEND
- Black: State or Federal Listed Species
- Green: Critical Habitat
- Blue: Forested Areas
- Red: Intensive Use Areas
- Yellow: Aquatic Areas
- Green: Water bodies
- Orange: Wetlands
- Brown: Intermittent Watercourses
- Black: Scrub
- Brown: Drainage Ditches
- Red: Dams
- Blue: Reservoirs
- Green: Flood Channels

EXPLANATION
- The map provides a visual representation of natural diversity data base areas in Thomaston, CT. These areas are significant for their ecological value and are managed by the DEP to ensure the preservation of biodiversity.

DATA SOURCES
- Connecticut Department of Energy & Environmental Protection
- Bureau of Natural Resources
- Wildlife Division

USE OF THE MAP
- The map can be used to identify natural diversity data base areas within the town of Thomaston. It highlights areas of conservation interest and provides a visual overview of the distribution of these areas.

MAP INFORMATION
- Date of Map: April 2021
- Natural Diversity Data Base Areas
- For more information on Natural Diversity Data Base Areas, contact DEP, Bureau of Natural Resources, Wildlife Division.

MAP PRESENTATION
- Map prepared by CT DEEP
- Map used for presentation purposes

[Map Image]