investigations; in some cases locations have been derived from comprehensive or site-specific field studies conducted by the Department of Energy. More detailed instructions are available in the request form on the Department of Energy website.

This map is intended to be printed at its original scale (1 inch = 1 mile) and is not to scale at a larger or smaller size. The map was produced by the Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection, Natural Resources Division, using data and information provided by the United States Geological Survey. The map is based on the Natural Diversity Data Base Digital Data published by the United States Geological Survey.

DATA SOURCES
- USGS: United States Geological Survey
- DEEP: Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection

LEGEND
- State and Federal Listed Species
- Critical Habitat
- State Boundary
- County Boundary
- Town Boundary
- Interstate
- U.S. Route
- State Route
- Ramp
- Street
- Ferry
- Railroad
- Watercourse
- Intermittent Watercourse
- Stream
- Drainage Ditch
- Dam
- Dammed Channel
- Aqueduct
- Water
- Intermittent Water
- Fan
- Rocks
- Inundated Area
- Marsh
- Cranberry Bog
- Dam
- Fish Hatchery
- Aqueduct
- Sewage Pond
- Water Tank

EXPLANATION
The map depicts the location of rare and special areas in the Tolland, CT area. The map was produced to aid in the identification and protection of the natural diversity of the area. The map is intended to be used as a reference tool for planning, development, and conservation efforts. The map was produced by the Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection, Natural Resources Division, using data and information provided by the United States Geological Survey. The map is based on the Natural Diversity Data Base Digital Data published by the United States Geological Survey.

DATA SOURCES
- USGS: United States Geological Survey
- DEEP: Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection

This map is intended to be printed at its original scale (1 inch = 1 mile) and is not to scale at a larger or smaller size. The map was produced by the Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection, Natural Resources Division, using data and information provided by the United States Geological Survey. The map is based on the Natural Diversity Data Base Digital Data published by the United States Geological Survey.